JPFA ON SILVER TRACK

On the occasion of Silver Jubilee year of India Section of Pierre Fauchard Academy and its Scientific organ the 'Journal of PFA', let me extend sincere greetings to all Fellows of India Section on my behalf and on behalf of the Journal Committee. This Journal is one of the few Scientific Journal being published uninterruptedly since its inception in April 1987. During the past two and a half decades of its publication, the Journal of PFA has earned a commendable recognition in the scientific forum nationally as well as abroad.

Quality of scientific material of a journal depends on the input by the contributors and the editorial board. Throughout the span of two and half decade, every effort have been made to maintain an appropriate scientific standard and presentability of the publication with a modest get up. The Scientific Editor Dr S S Sidhu and his team of experts deserve appreciations for the excellent job done. The ace of PFA India section Dr T Samraj has been playing pivotal role as secretary cum treasurer in keeping the India Section in good spirit. Kudos to him.

We do desire to further uplift the quality of material and presentation of the Journal. This would only be possible by unstinted and sincere cooperation of all fellows, contributors and of course the advertisers and Section office bearers. Contributors could do so by procuring advertisement.

Wishing you once again Silver Jubilee greetings and a prosperous 2011.
