EDITORIAL

CONTRIBUTORS!!! KIND ATTENTION PLEASE

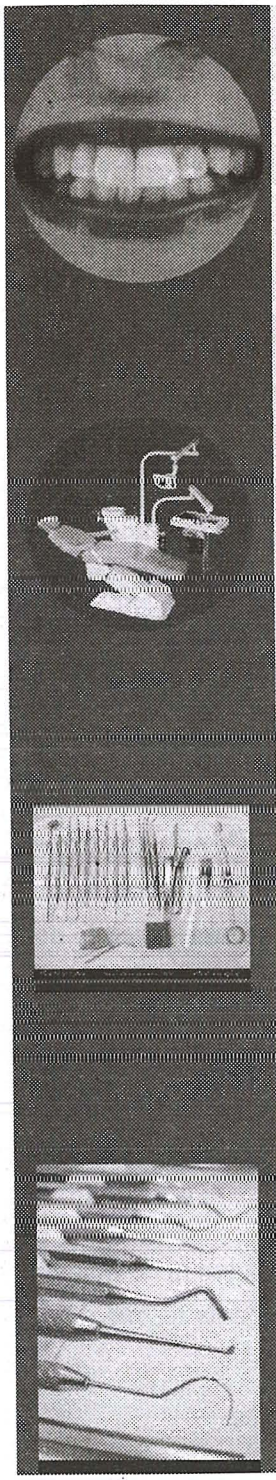

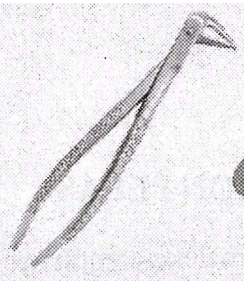

It is indeed a matter of satisfaction that this journal has completed 23 years of continuous publication. The journal during last 23 years inspite of limited resources, has earned a commendable recognition in the scientific forum nationally as well as abroad. the journal committee have been working hard and has spared no efforts to enhance the standard of scientific material and get up. However, there is always a scope for improvement. Scientific organ like this demands a sincere and astute interest and unstinted efforts of its contributors, as the academic and scientific standard solely depends on the quality of input by the contributors. Could I look forward for their cooperation and request them to take a little more interest and do a bit more hard work on the article before sending to the journal for publication. We have been printing instructions to the contributors in the journal from time to time. It seems that the contributors knowingly or unknowingly do not take not of these. It seems that many times the authors especially the guide or senior author do not even go through the manuscript before it is being forwarded for publication leaving numerous spelling and other mistakes which ultimately crop into the publication. Many a times photographs are poor and lack clarity. Tables and figures do not carry proper captions. The histopathological pictures are not properly labeled and at times even do not show the details. Most of the times references are given without following internationally accepted VANCOUVER STYLE. Contributors are advised to adopt a habit of going through the manuscript, graphics, figures and other details and Self Access the article and make sure that it is as per the desired format of the journal and material is of significant standard and mistakes free.

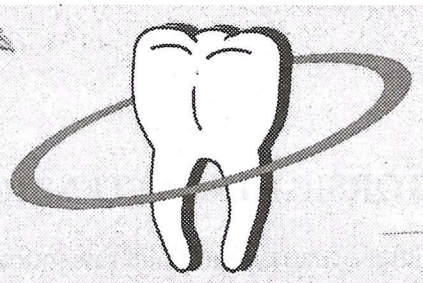

Financial implications of continued publication of such a scientific organ need no over emphasis. Contributors could help the journal by procuring advertisements to make this journal financially viable.

I once again seek continuous support and cooperation from you all.

With season's greetings.
