Greetings!!!

We welcome you all to the second issue of JCLS, 2025.

It gives us immense pleasure to witness the launch of the first issue of JCLS at the Inaugural Ceremony of 1st Ph.D Researcher's Colloquium 2025 organised by The West Bengal National University of Juridical Sciences (WBNUJS) in collaboration with the Consortium of National Law Universities on 26th April, 2025.

Designed as a platform for interdisciplinary and critical scholarship, the journal has received accolades for its maiden venture in trying to explore the dynamic relationship between law and society, encouraging original research, theoretical engagement, and policy-oriented discourse.

The launch took place during the inaugural session of the 1st Ph.D. Researcher's Colloquium and was marked by a ceremonial lighting of the lamp. The occasion was graced by eminent guests whose presence lent great academic and institutional significance to the event. Prof. Arpita Mitra, Convenor of the Colloquium and Vice Editor-in-Chief delivered the welcome address. Hon'ble Vice Chancellor of WBNUJS, Prof. N.K. Chakrabarti and Editor-in Chief, formally inaugurated the journal. Special Guest Prof. Dipankar Sinha offered thought-provoking reflections on research in contemporary contexts, while Guest of Honour Prof. Dhrubajyoti Chattopadhyay and Chief Guest Prof. Poonam Pradhan Saxena emphasized the importance of critical scholarship in shaping legal education and practice. The dignitaries were felicitated by the Vice Chancellor in recognition of their contributions to academia.

We are thankful to the authors of the second issue for addressing a wide dimension of intertwining between law and society. From Artificial Intelligence to Restorative Justice and from Reproductive Technology to Global Governance in the New World Order we have it all. The purpose of the journal in acknowledging the diverse interdisciplinary approaches in understanding the relationship between law and society seems to have found a platform through JCLS.

We are indebted to the readers, subscribers and of course our contributors for all their labour in making the purpose of JCLS a successful endeavour.

Looking forward to more such effort and encouraging readers to send in their research to us

Best wishes
